Dutch Aviation Open Golf 2001

October, 2001

Tjapko van Wijk 2001's winner

Missing last years event Tjapko van Wijk made a strong return by winning the challenge trophy "Wings" for 2001 with 38 stableford points. Although the challenge trophy was not available at that time Tjapko's name has already been engraved in the trophy for his year 1999 win.

All participants shocked by terrorist attacks

The Third Dutch Aviation Open has been marked in our memories due to the horrific events in the United States. The third aviation open hosted over 35 participants directly or indirectly related to the aviation industry. In good spirit and with better weather than ever expected everybody went out to make his best effort. Expecting to have a joyful, relaxing day with all the opportunity to discuss the aviation topics. When returning in the clubhouse in the afternoon we all learned about the incredible attack of the WTC and the Pentagon. It is clear that these events fully absorbed our minds and steered all further discussion with all emotional and practical aspects.

The Clinic

This year the pros Ruben Wechgelaer and Lisa Koenders took the responsibility for an attractive and instructive clinic. With great enthusiasm, commitment and patience they managed to improve the skills of all participants. The group was split in two subgroups to allow the pros to focus on their students and to introduce a bit of a competition element. It was understood that some chose to have a putting competition for money. The winner took quite a fortune home.

A little golf demo on holes 16 and 15 by Ruben Wechgelaer made people understand the length of the shots that golfers have to produce to make a good score.

The Gary Price sculptor "WINGS" Challenge-Trophy

Gary Price about WINGS: "This is one of my favorite pieces, as my first born son, Zachariah, modeled for it. It's a very therapeutic piece for me, representing freedom and the joy for life that so many of us lose sight of in our busy and responsible lives. The hand-me-down coveralls represent the toil and labor of the world, and the mail-order glider and outstretched arms have to do with dreams and aspirations."

The Gary Price sculpture WINGS is the Challenge-trophy of the Dutch Aviation Open Golf Tournament.
